Dear Colleagues,

We are delighted to bring back the 7th Annual NAAHP Conference to Miami, FL. We thank our partners Florida International University and the City of North Miami for enabling us to bring back the conference.

The last six years of the conference have demonstrated the value of bringing together leaders, doers, innovators, entrepreneurs, educators, civic leaders and students to discuss the prospects and potential of the Diaspora’s growth, and we look forward to continuing to contribute to these important conversations during this year’s conference.

Through candid and holistic conversations, we hope to showcase how Diaspora stakeholders have already begun to deploy unexpected and entrepreneurial solutions to solve a number of issues. By bringing together an expert and diverse range of panelists and keynote speakers, we aim to ensure that the NAAHP continues to provide a forum for meaningful engagement.

We hope to continue to build upon and grow the NAAHP for many more years to come, without losing sight of the vision that underpins this event:

- one of connectedness;
- commitment to creating a space for Haitian Diaspora professionals to gather, engage, network;
- commitment to highlighting the accomplishments of the Diaspora;
- commitment to educating the Diaspora professionally;
- and, creating a platform where the collective voices and professional/economic capital of the Diaspora can be leveraged for the advancement of Haitian professionals both for the homeland, domestically and abroad.

We thank our countless sponsors, media sponsors and association partners for their support. Finally, we want to thank the team of volunteers: chairs, the organizing and planning committee leads and team members and so many more for their tireless effort in helping to bring the 2018 NAAHP conference to fruition.

Sincerely,

Serge Renaud
NAAHP President

JP Michel
NAAHP Chairmen of the Board
Greetings,

On behalf of the planning team, I warmly welcome you all to the 2018 NAAHP conference, “The Haitian Diaspora: Disrupting and Redefining the Road Ahead.” I hope you enjoy the variety of presentations, panels, and special events that we have organized for your professional development; and are able to effectively network with your colleagues and peers who are doing great things.

I have had the opportunity to chair four of the past seven NAAHP conferences, and have worked in some capacity behind the scenes of all the others. The amount of legwork and hours it takes our team to coordinate a conference of this magnitude is tremendous. Each year, I tell myself I am not going to do this again, and each year I return because of an appreciation of my culture and the opportunity to connect the Diaspora professional to one another.

I vividly recall our first conference in 2012, it was actually a one-day symposium held at the Newark Museum, Newark, NJ and we had about 100 or so guest in attendance. Seven-years later, we are organizing a three-day conference with multiple coordinated events for 500+ attendees. We have a conference planning team of over 30 volunteers, 30+ partners, and coordinate conference logistics and planning at the city, state and international government levels. I believe one of the key reasons that this conference has grown so much over the years is because it fills a professional need within the Diaspora.

There is a need within the Haitian Diaspora for professionals to connect and have meaningful engagement. There is a need within entry-level, millennial and seasoned-careered Diaspora professionals to have a platform that highlights our successes. Ours is a growing and powerful audience. It is important that we find ways to connect and develop a united cultural voice, so that we are able to create opportunities for each other that will allow us to impact issues on a political, economic, professional and social level. This conference creates that platform and I am proud to be a part of its planning.

Another reason for the success of the conference, year after year, are the volunteers. Every member of our planning team serves in a volunteer role, so in addition to juggling their daily lives, family obligations and full-time work, they have chosen to work countless additional hours to ensure that we execute a top-notch professional Diaspora conference for attendees and speakers. So, I personally want to thank my phenomenal chairs, the NAAHP leadership team and our amazing conference committee leads for all of their hard work through these past eight months. Without you, this conference would have been impossible.

To all of the attendee’s, I hope you leave this year’s conference feeling inspired and proud of the work and impact that we as the Haitian Diaspora are having in the world. I hope that you would leave and become more courageous than ever to take leaps of faith and become a disruptor and one who is redefining the future in whatever lane you choose to pursue.

Sincerely,

Anide J. Eustache
Lead Conference Chair

This vital service is often critically strained due to a paucity of resources and sustainable funding. The panelists will discuss the current state of the emergency care system in Haiti. It will explore the types of services available in the country, their weaknesses, and potential solutions.

Session #7: Mental Health--Debunking the Myth and Stigma and Redefining What Mental Illness Looks Like | Location: Room 122

People of all ages, economic background and ethnicities are affected by mental illness. In fact, it is more prevalent among Haitians than we care to admit. Identifying and treating mental disorders can often present many challenges especially among Haitians both in Haiti and in the diaspora. One of the major roadblocks of identifying, reporting and treating mental illnesses is cultural misunderstanding and biases. In this session, you will hear from mental health experts who are working to debunk some of the cultural myths and biases of mental illness. We will explore topics such as identifying common signs of mental disorders, trauma, and culturally sensitive mental health training, and implementing strategies to ensure sound mental health. We will end our time together by exploring potential policies and training models that can help address mental health issues more effectively within the Diaspora and Haiti.

Session #8: Defining the Road Ahead--Rebuild Haiti through the Reintegration of the Haitian Diaspora at Every Level of the Haitian Society | Location: Room 120

In 2005, the Diaspora built a movement to amend the Haitian Constitution, which had stripped naturalized Haitians and those born overseas of their Haitian citizenship. Article 11, from the new amendment, states: “Any person born of a Haitian father or Haitian mother who are themselves native-born Haitians and have never renounced their nationality, possesses Haitian nationality at the time of birth." Yet, the amended Constitution still denies Haitians with multiple citizenships the right to representation in Parliament and to occupy national public offices. Specifically, it does not authorize the exercise of the right to vote in elections, etc. The panelists will explore how to build a sustainable and inclusive movement, in partnership with Haiti-based private and public institutions, to fully integrate the Haitian Diaspora in the affairs of the country.

Moderator: Judge Lionel Jean-Baptiste, President of the United Front of the Haitian
Speakers:
• Jean-Robert LaFortune, President of the Haitian-American Grassroots Coalition

The Global Economy evolves every day. Participation simply requires a product and a willingness to compete and trade. This is what both successfully developed, emerging, and developing countries have learned and pursued. Thus, what should the Haitian participation in the Global Economy by 2040 look like? What should be the products? Can Haiti even try anything without the necessary infrastructure—both social and physical? This panel will discuss recommendations made by the NAAHP Working Group to these questions and the suggested models aimed at improving Haiti’s competitiveness in the Global Economy.

Concurrent Breakout Session
Many fear that technology will deepen the skills gap and increase unemployment by taking over jobs that are traditionally performed by humans. Is this a myth or reality? What is the impact on immigration in the United States in this regard? What does that mean for Haiti, a country characterized by cheap labor, high unemployment, and low literacy rates? Furthermore, though not unique to the Haitian Diaspora, many are in dire need of career guidance to make sure that their field of study are aligned with their interest and aptitudes while taking into consider their financial needs. This session will seek to answer these questions and offer new strategies to successfully move into the future.

Moderator: Newton Sanon, President of OIC of South Florida

Session #10: Diaspora’s Investments In Haiti—A Road Map to Redefining the Economic Development of the country | Location: Room 114

The Diaspora sends about $2.7 billion USD (32% of GDP) last year in Haiti. While these contributions are important and helpful, they cannot be categorized as investments as they mostly fund consumption expenditures of imported goods. This session will explore how Diaspora’s Direct Investment in Haiti can redefine the country’s economy and create a path toward economic development. Furthermore, it will highlight investment opportunities in Haiti in key sectors and the role of innovative financing in promoting economic development and eradicating poverty.

Moderator: Vanessa Joseph, Attorney, Catholic Legal Services, Inc.

- Vladimir Laborde, CEO, Avenir Energy, S.A.

Session #11: Community Development and Capacity Building in the Haitian Diaspora | Location: Room 122

The Diaspora can serve as a bridge between Haitian communities living in host countries and in the motherland and has the power to strengthen both communities. How do we bring both communities together and build them up? What structures and programs can add value and create change in these communities? What mechanisms can be used to ensure sustainability and why is this important? These are questions that this session will seek to answer.

Moderator: Hadassah St. Hubert, Ph.D. CLIR Postdoctoral Fellow at dLOC

Speakers:
- Nadege Fleurimond, CEO of ROAR Consulting, LLC
- Ronald Cetoute, Co-Founder at B.E.L. Initiative
- Eveline Pierre, Co-Founder and Executive Director of the first Haitian Heritage Museum
- Dina Simon, CEO of the USVI Hurricane Recovery & Resilience Task Force
Diaspora communities are becoming increasingly attractive to savvy companies in emerging and developing economies seeking to increase their market share. These companies are capitalizing on the success of the diaspora and their purchasing power. Considering that Haitian diaspora has maintained their cultural distinctiveness while living abroad, it represents an untapped opportunity that is yet to be leveraged by companies operating in Haiti. The millennial generation who is generally more educated with greater purchasing power, have kept their affiliation to, both, the Haitian culture and that of their birthplace. The panelists will explore what companies operating in Haiti are doing to capitalize on the diaspora market and discuss their challenges and potential solutions.

Plenary Session: U.S.-Immigration Policy--The Impact Now and in the Future on Legal and Illegal Immigrants | Location: Bayview Ballroom

The U.S.-immigration system and policy are complex and can be difficult for the layman to understand. The news has been dominated by a plethora of immigration issues including border security, detention of immigrant children, deportation, Temporary Protected Status (TPS) and Public Charge. As a community, it is important that the diaspora remains informed. This panel will seek to provide information on TPS and Public Charge. The panelist will explain what these policies mean, the implications on the Haitian community and the immigrant population as a whole, and how to collaborate and support frontline organizations that are working to improve these policies.
